Building Notes in Montclair.

The residents of the village on the heights seem to have taken early advantage of the low prices for labor and material as brought about by the recent dull times. There are not less than twenty new dwelling houses in process of erection at the present time. They range from the costly villa down to the plain but tasty cottage of six or eight rooms. These new improvements are scattered about in various parts of the township.

On Walnut street near the Bloomfield line, C. P. Baldwin is erecting two very nice houses, in a section hitherto unimproved. The situation in this vicinity is very desirable, and seems to have only been neglected heretofore on account of inadequate railway facilities. Being now within five minutes of the Walnut street depot, with trains running regularly to and from New York at convenient hours, it is safe to predict that property in this locality will be sought for.

Mr. H. A. Clifton is also improving his property in the same neighborhood, having commenced building upon Walnut street near Mr. Baldwin's.

J. R. Livermore and Matthias Crane are each building upon Union street, the houses to be of the best class.

Samuel Wilde is putting up a large house upon Forest street.

Upon the same street E. Madison, the stationer, is building himself a cottage residence.

Mrs. Cunningham is building a house on Grant street, for her own occupancy.

Mr. Towers is erecting, for investment, two dwellings on Lincoln avenue.

Two new houses are going up on Park street.

E. B. Crane is putting up a house on Fulton ave.

J. H. Hayden is building a dwelling for himself upon the Valley Road.

In the lower part of the village, Barney Levy is building a number of tenant houses on the Old Road.

All these projected improvements, together with the announcement that many more are in contemplation at an early day, denote that Montclair is destined to have a steady and healthful growth. All the improvements that have been commenced evince a commendable enterprise and desire to advance the interests of the village.

The Question of Public Improvement.

Last week we announced that the next public meeting of the Euclidean Society would partake of the nature of a discussion, free to any who might choose to take part, of the question "What should be the Policy of Bloomfield in reference to Public Improvements?"

This meeting, which is to be held next Monday evening, promises to be an important one. We only fear that the dimensions of the hall may prove inadequate to accommodate all who will desire to be present.

The Society have issued their customary announcement, giving the programme of the meeting. There are set down several short exercises by members—Criticism, Reading and Essay—after which the public improvement question comes up. The discussion is to be opened by a Paper on the subject by Mr. Fred Crane.

Statistics in regard to Belleville will be submitted by Mr. D. G. Garbaret; other statistics of Newark, Elizabeth and Chicago, by Mr. G. T. Moore; and still others, relating to Orange and Montclair, by Mr. J. P. Hagne.

The minutes afforded by these details, it is presumed, will have a tendency to enlighten the discussion and bring out points which cannot fail to be interesting as well as valuable.

East Orange Legislation.

At a recent meeting of the Township Committee of East Orange the provisions of a proposed act to be introduced into the Legislature were adopted as follows:

1. In making the valuation and assessment of real estate for taxes, no deduction shall be made therefrom on account of any personal indebtedness.

2. The meeting of the Township Committee to examine, revise and correct the Assessor's valuations shall be held hereafter on the last Tuesday in June, instead of the third Tuesday in August, as heretofore.

3. The rate of interest on unpaid taxes, per annum, to twelve percent, applying only to future taxes.

4. License fees assessed by the Court for saloon licenses shall be paid to the township in stead of the county.

5. Whenever in the judgment of the Township Committee, public necessity or convenience requires the laying of a sidewalk or flag or other material, they may proceed by ordinance to decree the laying of the same, provided the width of the walk shall not exceed five feet.

6. A Receiver of Taxes shall be appointed, who shall hold his office during the pleasure of the Township Committee, in order that the Committee may by direct control be able to enforce the prompt payment of taxes.

Congressional.

The Census Committee of the House have under consideration a proposition to re-enact the South Carolina act of 1871, which authorizes the President to suspend the writ of habeas corpus in any section of the country in a state of anarchy, or where, in his judgment, the public safety requires it. Also, to recommend legislation, providing that the maximum strength of a company of infantry in the army shall be eighty, instead of fifty-six men, and that a company of artillery shall be one hundred men.

A caucus of Republican Senators was held on Saturday. The matter under discussion was the admission of Colorado as a State, and the Transportation question. No action was taken on either subject, although it was elicited that sixteen out of the twenty-five Senators present favored the admission of Colorado. The chief topic of discussion was the condition of the South, but there being conflicting views, no result was reached. The caucus, instead of giving their views on the Louisiana question, agreed to await the action of the Committee on Privilege and Election on the credentials of P. B. S. Pinchback, who claims to be elected Senator.

A New York independent paper regards the election of Andrew Johnson to the United States Senate as "a stroke of retributive justice on the Democrats for permitting the defeat of Carl Schurz and Charles Francis Adams. A more obstinate, thick-headed, impracticable, garrulous demagogue never got saddled upon that body before. He is as full of opinions as an old cheese with inhabitants, and as stubborn in maintaining them as an educated mule in refusing to go; and his opinions belong to the Silurian epoch of political history, and are only interesting as antiquarian curiosities. The only redeemable thing about him is his honesty, and he even manages to make that as offensive as Chubb's piety." His election weakened the opposition more than a half-dozen defeats, and made a seat in the Senate particularly undesirable. A few more such elections and the people will be willing to consider a proposal for abolishing that Chamber by constitutional amendment.

Legislative.

Some ninety bills have already been introduced in the Legislature, most of them unimportant to the public at large. The U. S. Senatorship was decided by a formal vote of both Houses on Tuesday, in favor of Mr. Randolph. The Senate recorded a majority of 4 for Hon. Geo. M. Robeson, the House giving Mr. Randolph a majority of 23.

Already a Committee of Investigation is at work upon an alleged jobbery by the newly-elected Clerk of the House, Mr. Carpenter. Testimony taken goes to show conclusively that Carpenter agreed to give the Journal Clerkship to Mr. Hamford upon the payment of $500 to his antagonist, Sayre, and that the note for that amount bearing date, he "went back" upon his promise and gave the position to another applicant. It seems probable that Carpenter will be removed and another appointment made.

Among the Essex County bills introduced is one by Mr. Dodd, a supplement to the Orange charter, which changes the penalty on delinquent taxes from two to one per cent. per month. Also, that all taxes for street-lighting be assessed only on the property benefited. It empowers the Board of Education to appoint an official to rate the school census; reduces the beer license from $100 to $50, and gives the Council power to revoke licenses for cause.

Another Essex bill fixes the salaries of Prosecutors of the Pleas at $6,000 per annum in lieu of fees, with an allowance of $3,000 for expenses.

Mr. Taylor has introduced in the Senate a supplement to the Essex Road Board, providing that the Board shall have power, before construction, to reduce the width of any avenue or part thereof, in which case they shall cause to be filed a map of the avenue so reduced in connection with the original map. The bill also has provisions in reference to assessments.

The amendments to the constitution have finally passed the Senate without any change in any respect. They will now go to the House of Assembly, and if passed there will go to the people to be voted on at a special election to be held at some time not later than four months after the adjournment of the Legislature.

Town Committee Proceedings.

The regular semi-monthly session was held last Friday. There were informal discussions of town matters, but no business of importance was transacted. A number of small bills relating to the poor account, aggregating $64.94, were ordered paid. The clerk was instructed to publish a notice, requesting bills against the township to be sent in for audit and settlement before Friday, Feb. 12th.

Record Prosperity.

One of our readers, residing out of town, writes as follows:

DEAR SIR: Your paper, in its last issue, is very creditable, and I think, is not only an interesting sheet for a weekly, but a very neat and handsome one. When you can branch out that way, it looks like prosperity.

LOCAL NOTE-BOOK.

Sleighing still superb.

If you have not asked your sidewalk, do so at once.

Mr. P. Weaver is recovering slowly from a dangerous attack of pneumonia.

Compulsory education—going to school after coming till twelve o'clock the night before.

A newspaper warned, and placed in the wastebasket will keep out cold far better than a large quantity of clothing. Now is the time to subscribe.

A "Phantom Surprise" was given to Mr. and Mrs. Theo. H. Ward by their friends on Wednesday evening, which is reported to have been a most enjoyable affair.

Lost—On Tuesday evening, while riding from the Morris Neighborhood to Newark, by way of Bloomfield avenue, a milk box. The finder will please call at this office or address the owner, "E. H.," Box 54, Bloomfield Post Office.

P. J. Lawrence, leader of the orchestra at the well-known summer resort Delaware Water Gap, the past season, is now located in Bloomfield and will furnish first-class music for Sociables. Branch office near Watessing Station.

The Missionary Society of the First Pres. Church Sunday School has recently contributed $68 to the Kansas and Nebraska sufferers, the sum having been realized from a single collection.

We have received a very sprightly original sketch, entitled "Almost a Tragedy," written for THE RECORD by a young lady of a neighboring village. It will be published in next week's paper.

A finely dressed young lady slipped and fell near the post office yesterday, and the gallant who assisted her to her feet inquired: "Did you break any bones, madam?" "No, I guess not," she replied, "but I'm just as mad as if I had broken a dozen of 'em."

Eight big sleigh-loads of children, from Franklin School District No. 4, brought up at Archdeacon's Hotel yesterday at mid-day, after a fine sleighride through the Oranges. They numbered 125, in charge of Trustee Thomas Vreeland, and their instructors, Mr. G. W. Simons, Miss Julia Vreeland and Julia Brown. Mr. Archdeacon furnished a nice entertainment in Friendship Hall, where a long table was spread with refreshments.

The call for aid in behalf of the Western sufferers recently made in the First Presbyterian church met with a generous response. Besides the handsome collection taken in the Sunday School, a large quantity of miscellaneous articles were sent to the residence of Dr. Coe, filling three barrels. These were dispatched on Wednesday, to the Mitchell County Aid Society, at Solomon City, from whence the goods will be distributed under the direction of a clergyman well known to Dr. Coe.

The Sleighing Season.

A party of twenty-six comprising the young people of the Morris Neighborhood, went on a sleigh ride to Greenville last Tuesday night. They left Bloomfield between six and seven o'clock, reaching Newark a little before eight, and then took the Plank Road across the meadows to Bergen. After a variety of incidents and adventures the party reached the objective point of the excursion, the Captain Howe place, situated on New York Bay, near Bergen Point, and the residence of Mr. W. A. Collins, late of this village. The visit was a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. C., but they made their friends heartily welcome, and the latter were in no wise slow to appreciate a blazing fire on the hearth and other indoor comforts after a threehours' ride in the keen, frosty atmosphere.

While supper was being prepared by one of the ladies, dancing was arranged in the large parlor and hall. Two or three hours were agreeably spent before and after an excellent supper was served in devotion to the pleasurable art of Terpsichore. Then home thoughts came up, and the banding and bunching up process began, followed by the adieu, preface to making the return trip. This was attended by no accident, the party reaching their homes in Bloomfield by the light of the morning star.

Paris has the cleanest streets of any city in the world. They are swept by machinery and by hand every day. In New York the streets are cleaned once a week, and in some districts once a year. The Philadelphia people are continually washing their marble steps, but their streets are as dirty as the courts of Constantinople. The cost of this work in Paris is eight and a half cents a day; in Philadelphia forty-four cents; and in New York, eighty-five cents.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29, 1875.

"In time of peace prepare for war," is an old adage the wisdom of which is recognized by all the Powers of Europe, and should be recognized by our own Government. The recommendations of the President in this regard, however, has caused some excitement. He sent a message to Congress earnestly recommending an appropriation for experiments in rifled cannon, which certainly is timely when the Chief of Ordnance reports we have no cannon to use in case of war. At present we are at peace with the whole world, and are likely to continue so, unless compelled to change our policy by some act of bad faith which is not now expected. Since the war, while other Governments have progressed with war-like inventions until their ambition has been realized, our own has remained comparatively inert. The time has come when a due regard for our dignity as a nation and our safety as a people demands that we shall take wise precautionary measures, in view of the possibility of future complications.

The latest news from Louisiana is that the Conservatives regret their precipitation in withdrawing from the State House. It is now proposed as a measure of compromise that Kilgore be recognized as Governor and Penn as Lieutenant Governor, and a fair division of the offices between the two contending parties. With the spoils once settled, no doubt the rest of the business would proceed very harmoniously, and no doubt this would be about the safest and easiest way of reaching a solution of the trouble.

The very summit of impudence has been reached by the representatives of the Express Companies who are asking Congress to repeal or modify the law allowing certain merchandise to be carried in the mails, on the ground that, on account of the low rate charged, therefore, they cannot compete with the government in that line of business! Suppose they can't. The question can well be asked, have these monopolies any rights under which the whole country must pay tribute, and the people be deprived of all transportation facilities for small packages, in order that their coffers may be filled; or no, outside the stockholders, care if their enormous profits are reduced somewhat. The public is largely the gainer, and that is all the interest Congress has any business to look out for.

The Pacific Mail Subsidy is still before a Congressional Committee. It has been shown that the company merited help from Congress, and would have received it; and that the money used in its passage was simply a grant waste. Thousands of dollars were given to men who could make no return in influence, or help, of any kind. One doorkeeper got $11,000, which was as much of a surprise to him as to anybody who has given to him such a sum of money for nothing. The present investigation exposes some of the inside workings of the lobby. Mr. Irwin, a witness who refused to answer questions and changing his mind about it after lying in jail a week or so, gave the names of certain men, and amounts given each. Among the lobbyists, there is a class never mentioned. These are the female lobbyists who are more expert and persistent in developing the voting capacity of the ordinary Congressmen by their "winning ways" are potent in securing votes. That such is the case is very well known by every one in Washington, and I may add they are not all respectable.

To get rid of the element, it is proposed to provide for a bar of the two Houses of Congress, by the appointment at each session of Congress of a committee of three members of each branch of Congress, who will determine what persons may appear as attorneys before committees, and to admit, suspend or expel members of the bar thus organized. No one will be admitted unless he is a member of the bar of the Court of final jurisdiction in the State or Territory where he resides. The bill finally proposes to make it a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment from thirty days to two years, for any person to give or receive any valuable consideration to influence the action of Congress except as provided by the bill.

A fire was discovered yesterday in the Navy Department in the upper story, where were kept the bound volumes of letters copied by the letter press. The building was considerably injured. Six rooms on the third and fourth floors will require very great repairs, all their contents and a considerable portion of the work were there being destroyed. Other rooms were much injured by the flood of water poured into the building, and the office of the Secretary, as well as that of the Examining and Retiring Boards were saved only from the water, by cutting holes into other rooms, so as to permit the water to avoid these rooms in its course. No document of importance has been injured, it is said, but it will be some days before order can be restored in the building, and some weeks before the results of the fire can be repaired. (There will be an investigation as to its origin.)

The Civil Rights Bill was before the House, yesterday, upon a motion to suspend the rules, by which it could only be considered without being controlled by the filibustering motions of the Democrats, and was defeated. Marcus L. Ward voted yea, with the Republicans, to suspend the rules.

One F. H. Snyder was arrested Saturday on a warrant sworn out by Norman Ward, charging Snyder with stealing an important letter belonging to him written to him by Minister Schenck. The New York Sun, considered it of such importance as to offer $100 for it. He was held over for the Grand Jury.

Only thirty-two more working days, including Saturdays remain of the present session of Congress, and nothing done yet.

Jewels from the East.

The wedding gift from the Khedive of Egypt to the daughter of Gen. Sherman reached New York by steamer on Tuesday, and was on private exhibition in the Collector's parlor of the Custom House yesterday afternoon.

The present is a parure of diamonds, necklace and earrings, said to be the most magnificent and valuable in this country. The necklace is composed of four strands of diamonds, each of which is a brilliant. Not one of them is worth less than $1,000. The earring is studded with the gems, and they are set so closely together as to be almost too good. There are so many of them that Deputy Collector Lydecker tired in the count. He counted three hundred and one, and fifty, which is only about half of the whole number. The strands are joined by four immense stones, each of which is encircled by smaller gems. The one in front is the size of a hickory nut, and is worth $20,000; pendant from the front is a festoon of brilliants with five big pear-shaped stones of finest water lustre hanging from it. The ornaments for the ear are single stones equally as large as the rest. The entire set is appraised at from $250,000 to $300,000.

The case for the jewels is plain morocco, without inscription. As soon as the Secretary of the Treasury orders a free permit for them under the special act of Congress they are to be delivered to the Turkish Minister, and by him presented to the fair bride on behalf of the Egyptian potentate.

New Jersey Items.

During the progress of a protracted meeting in the Cedarville M. E. Church, a man named Elmer Diment, while laboring under undue mental excitement, arose from his seat, rushed up and into the pulpit, threw his arms affectionately around the pastor's neck and repeatedly kissed him, before that gentleman could offer any resistance. The act was done so quickly and unexpectedly that before the congregation could gather their bewildered and scattered senses it was over, and the man firmly held by Mr. Stokes, the pastor, who fell dazed to the floor, and amid the screams of frightened women, the man was removed and order restored.

An interesting case was decided in the Essex County Supreme Court, on Tuesday. Two years ago, Thomas Church, of Montclair, was asked by Mrs. Letitia Davy to hold her horse while she alighted. Mr. Church, who is an old man, complied, when the horse became fractious and trampled upon him, breaking his leg and knee joint. Mrs. Davy, who is wealthy refused to pay his doctor's bill, and he brought suit to recover $20,000 damages. The jury returned a verdict for $10,000.

The city fathers of Princeton have voted to discontinue lighting of the street lamps in that borough until such time as the condition of its finances will warrant the expense. A debt of $4,000 forced them to this measure. Fears are entertained that the police force will have to be dispensed with. This is the only remaining item of expense.

A youth named Bass, a student in the Methodist Episcopal Seminary at Hackensack, N. J., attempted to shoot himself on Monday. Two other students, Slight and Barrone, interfered, and Bass fired at them, but wounded himself in the hand. Unrequited love for a young lady student, was the cause of Bass's attempt on his life.

The residents of Communiap and that section south of it for about two miles are preparing for a remonstrance, to be submitted to the Grand Jury of Hudson county against the continuance of the powder house and nitro-glycerine factory on the island known as "Black Tom," where the explosion recently occurred resulting in the awful death of four men.

A Somerset paper says that the severe cold weather of last week ruined the prospect for peaches the coming season throughout that county. The buds been examined in different localities and found to be black in the centre, showing that the germ has been killed.

A very large opossum was shot with a Winchester rifle last Saturday on the place of Nathan Brown, near Elizabeth, and one night, a few weeks since, an owl on a tree thirty feet high was shot with a revolver near Mr. Brown's house. It isn't a safe place for burglars around there.

According to an old poll list of Essexham, Burlington County, there was a fair representation of female suffragists at an election of representatives to the Seventh Congress, in 1800, the list containing the names of a dozen or more ladies who came in to vote during the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Sartoris, the son-in-law and daughter of President Grant, have arrived in New York in the White Star steamship Republic. They passed through Newark yesterday en-route to Washington.

A lighter, loaded with coffee, lying at the wharf of the Cardiff Steamship Company, in Jersey City, was visited by river thieves a night or two ago, and robbed of $1,400 worth of coffee.

Minna V. Saums, of Somerville, died last Saturday, aged 96. He had always enjoyed good health and maintained his faculties in a remarkable degree to the last.
